Entrepreneurship Development Programme (EDP) on

Food Processing and Startups

19th – 30th March, 2018 at IIPMB, Bengaluru

Introduction

Food is an essential and consumable item. India produces large quantity of agricultural commodities but less than 10 per cent is processed. Branded processed food segment ensures that consumers are provided with quality, hygienic, safe and nutritious foods. Value addition and the food processing segment have generated enough support in the form of foreign direct investment and conducive government policies.

Many aspiring entrepreneurs are seriously searching for profitable business ideas to start new venture. Finding and selecting a right business is the first and most important step for any venture initiative. Increasing population and demand for having food at convenience are the factors that creating more opportunities in food processing.
